

“Bridging the Gap between Home and School”

Are you worried about your child’s safety going to and from school?

START A “WALKING SCHOOL BUS” TO HELP YOUR KIDS GET TO SCHOOL SAFELY

- A “walking school bus” is when family members or trusted friends volunteer to accompany children and walk with them as a group to and from school.
- It costs nothing to implement, and especially helps children with disabilities.
- Adults or older teens can share the responsibility of accompanying younger children to school.
- Seek advice from your local school, and go to further information at bottom.

- For details, go to www.walkingschoolbus.org. Also visit Access Exchange International (AEI) at <https://www.globalride-sf.org/> and go to Sections 3 and 4 about walking to school at the guide “Bridging the Gap: Your role in transporting children with disabilities to school in developing countries.” You can also click on the video titled “Promoting Volunteerism” at this site.
- Brought to you as a public service by AEI, a non-profit NGO in San Francisco, USA.
- We encourage reproduction and translation of this flyer.
- Illustrations by Eli Noyes

-Diagram by Janett Jiménez Santos.